

Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council announces selected Per Cent for Art projects

Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council is delighted to announce that 8 new projects covering theatre, photography, dance, visual art, literature and music have recently been selected as part of the 'Place & Identity' Per Cent for Art Programme. 6 residencies and 3 once-off projects will take place over the life of the programme from 2008 to 2010 and will cover the entire county. The 6 residences will be attached to each of the electoral areas of the county and will last for a period of a year.

The first 3 residencies will take place from June 2008 to May 2009. Photographer Noel Bowler will undertake 'Islam in Ireland', a contemporary look at the one of the fastest growing religions in Ireland today in the Stillorgan electoral area. The Public Communications Group consisting of artists Brian Maguire, Brian O'Connor and Dominic Thorpe will be based in the Dundrum electoral area undertaking a project entitled Signatures. It will centre on engagement with individuals from various cultural and ethnic backgrounds who live in the area. Composer Ian Wilson will interview a number of people from the Glencullen electoral area and will write a 35-40 minute piece of music inspired by this. A number of performances will take place in the area in April 2009.

In 2009, novelist and poet Dermot Bolger will write a new prose work inspired by his imaginative interpretation of the experience of life today in Blackrock. Artist Gary Coyle will make a series of large portrait drawings in charcoal of Dún Laoghaire people and will also continue to examine his hometown via photography. Dublin Youth Dance Company will undertake Transitions, an innovative dance project that will be based in the Ballybrack electoral area. The project will involve transition year students from schools in the locality.

In addition, there will be 2 once-off projects taking place in the east of the county between July and October 2008. Ciaran Taylor and BDNC Theatre will take over the Dún Laoghaire ferry terminal after hours and show us some of the characters who pass through everyday. Theatre, movement and live music combine to serve up a slice of the real with a dollop of the surreal. There may be 50 ways to leave Dun Laoghaire but are there as many ways to come back? Performances will take place at 7:30 and 9:00 p.m. on Friday 11th & Saturday 12th July. Tickets are free, but booking is essential as places are limited. Bookings may be made through the Pavilion Theatre Tel: (01) 231 2929. Artist Patricia McKenna will create a time-based piece lasting 1 day on Sandycove beach in September 2008. It will consist of brightly coloured gelatine pieces that will be placed on the beach at low tide and will gradually dissolve and drift out to sea. The artist will also create a video piece arising from the installation.

This programme sees the County Council pool funding from a variety of Per Cent for Art Schemes in Housing and Environment, through the Department of the Environment, Heritage and Local Government. In excess of €500,000 will be spent on the programme between 2008 and 2010. This new programme encompasses a range of artforms, will cover the entire county and will involve local people as both participants and audience.
