To set the mood there will be free screenings of classic 80's movies on the big screen from 1.00pm. There'll be plenty of 80's fun and novelty treats to amuse big and small kids alike, including a display of the coolest classic cars and bikes.

This fun filled flashback welcomes all of the family, especially Dad. Dress up in your best 80's gear, bring along the kids and show the younger generation what it was like in the 80s

Fourth Annual Open House Dublin

Date: Tuesday 8th October to Friday 11th October
Admission: Free

The Irish Architecture Foundation is delighted to announce the fourth annual Open House Dublin, where over one weekend, buildings selected for their architectural quality and interest open their doors to the public.

This year we also have an educational programme aimed to enthuse children and young adults about architecture and their environment. In Dún Laoghaire in particular there will be an architectural 'Discovery Trail' over the weekend which acts as a treasure hunt to local architectural landmarks, and a 'Sea City Scape' workshop, which is a fun and creative workshop for the family to create a skyline of the seaside city, following a short tour.

Buildings in the 2009 programme range from the secular to the sacred with the multi-award winning Pump House in Clontarf by de Paor Architects and a new Parish Centre for the Church of St George and St Thomas in Dublin.

Explore your city's architecture with over 160 events, ranging from the building, walking, boat and cycling tours to the children workshops, architectural lectures and Open Debate.

Arts workers groups on Facebook

Theatre Forum Email: theatreforum@ireland.com
Web: www.theatreforumireland.com

The aim of this campaign is to bring together people working in the arts and creative industries in every constituency in Ireland.

This means that when the time comes we will be able to demonstrate to councillors and TDs just how many arts workers live and vote in every constituency in Ireland. This is the first time something like this has been attempted.

There are currently 39 constituency Facebook groups (out of the 43 constituencies around the country) with over 3,000 arts workers registered.

If you're on Facebook, simply login and type in arts workers in the search box on the right. All the groups will come up and you can scroll down and find yours .

You can also link to them on the Theatre Forum website.

Specifically the Dún Laoghaire group (set up by actor Dee Roycroft) is at <http://www.facebook.com/group.php?gid=107997033712&ref=share>.

Remembers to join the group where you live and vote (this might be different to where you work) - if you are not on Facebook and wish to join you can email theatreforum@ireland.com and give your name, address email and constituency.

Roscommon Arts Office Public Art Project

Contact: <http://www.roscommonarts.com/artsoffice/programmes/public.htm>

Arising from Local Authority Capital Developments in the region, Roscommon County Council, as commissioning client, invites submissions from an artist or artists comprising the skills of Composer & Playwright for the development of a new work of choral theatre for future production with Suaimhneas Choral Singers and Riverside Chorus and a cast of professional actors. The maximum budget for the commission will be €40,000.00 inclusive of all artists' fees, costs, expenses, VAT, insurance and any other charges associated with the development of the new work.

The aims of the commission are to -

- engage a professional artist or team of artists encompassing the skills of composer and playwright to develop an original piece of choral theatre.
- provide new opportunities for Suaimhneas Choral Singers and Riverside Chorus to go beyond their regular performance practice.
- bring professional theatre and choral work together in an experimental and innovative process.
- develop new audiences for professional choral and theatre work in the region.

Deadline for submission of Stage 1 proposals - Thurs 1st Oct 2009

Signal Arts Centre Artist in the Community 2009

Signal Arts Centre, 1 Albert Avenue, Bray, Co. Wicklow.
E: signalartscentre@gmail.com

Signal Arts Centre invites Artists whose practice involves engaging with local communities to submit an application to the Centre's annual Artist in the Community Award which is grant aided through Wicklow County Council.

Interested artists should submit a CV, examples of previous work, and an outline of the concept and how you would engage with a community, including what kind of community you see yourself engaging with (e.g. youth group, women's group, special interest groups, etc.) Signal is particularly interested in the artistic merits of the concept and an understanding of engaging with or collaborating with communities. All art forms are welcome.

The successful artist will be expected to engage with a community organisation based in Bray for a minimum of 20 hrs from October 2009 to January 2010. There will be an exhibition of the process/product in Signal Arts Centre in February 2010. The total fee payable to the Artist will be €3,000.

Closing Date for receipt of applications is: 5 p.m. Friday 25th September 2009

The deadline for the next round of Bursary awards (originally 5 November 2009) has been extended and the new deadline is 21 January 2010.

The Bursary Award is focused on individual artists. The primary purpose of the Bursary Award is to support professional artists in developing their art. It aims to provide artists with the time, resources and freedom to think, research, reflect and develop their practice.

Roscommon Arts Office Public Art Project

Contact: www.roscommonarts.com

Arising from the development of Castlereagh Sewerage Scheme, Roscommon County Council invites submissions from artists for the creation of new work in visual art, literature, and architecture/urban design.

This competition will be conducted in two stages. For Stage 1, artists are invited to apply for one of three short-term Artist in Residence projects, one in Visual Art, one in Literature and one in Architecture/Urban Design. These projects take the place of the traditional Stage 1 application process, but are to be considered comprehensive standalone short residencies in themselves. Following the successful completion of these residencies, one of the three artists selected will be invited to devise a longer term project for Castlereagh.

Closing date for registration to attend site visit is Thursday 10th Sept 2009.

Open House Dublin is looking for volunteers

Further information: volunteers@architecturefoundation.ie

Open House are currently looking for volunteers who would be interested in joining our passionate team during the Open House Dublin 2009 weekend from 8th to 11th October 2009. Volunteers will be assigned a particular building in the programme and be asked to support the architectural guide and help inform the public. In return volunteers will gain valuable experience, discover the architecture of Dublin, and will be invited to our after party on the Sunday night. We are also looking for volunteers willing to work from mid September, they will become key members of our team in the lead up to the event.
