

Tánaiste opens new €8m Swimming Pool and Leisure Centre in Loughlinstown

An Tánaiste and Minister for Foreign Affairs & Trade, Eamon Gilmore T.D., has officially opened a new swimming pool and leisure centre in Loughlinstown.

The Council's facility which is operated by dlr Leisure Services, has been completely modernised and includes; 3 new artificial pitches with pitch changing facilities, reception area, changing village, coffee shop, beauty salon, children's play area and improved parking facilities. The entire centre has been repainted and revamped and brought very much into the 21st Century.

The swimming pool, which was delivered on time and within budget, boasts a state of the art filtration system which will reduce maintenance costs. The heating system is powered by a Combined Heat and Power unit (CHP), which meets and exceeds the huge energy requirements of a modern day swimming pool. The Air Handling Units (AHUs) keep the oxygen, humidity and temperature within the Centre to strict limits.

Speaking on the day, An Cathaoirleach, Councillor Tom Joyce said: "Many years of planning and hard work have gone in to the building of this magnificent pool. The decision to upgrade the gymnasium and leisure areas in tandem with the new pool has combined to make an excellent facility. The result as you see before you is a modern, state of the art, light filled swimming pool which is second to none."

Blue Flag Status for Seapoint and Killiney Beaches

Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council was delighted to find out recently that two Blue Flags were awarded for the 2013 bathing season at Seapoint and Killiney beaches. The award followed closely on the news that we were one of only three out of the eighteen Local Authorities who have designated bathing areas, to achieve 'good' water quality status for all of their identified bathing waters.

The awarding of the Blue Flags demonstrates the commitment of the Council to best practice in managing our unique and diverse coastline which we are so fortunate to live alongside.

Speaking on the day of the awards, An Cathaoirleach, Cllr Tom Joyce said: "Both of these beaches are very popular locations for local communities and I would like to thank the local coastal communities, beach users, coastcare groups, Council employees and individuals in maintaining these beaches to such high environmental standards. Once again, we are delighted to have achieved the high standards of the Blue Flag eco label and to see the Blue Flag flying at Seapoint and Killiney."

The Council will continue to carry out our extensive beach-cleaning programme on all beaches and wish to acknowledge the importance to the community of such a valuable amenity. The results of all bathing water quality tests carried out at the County's Beaches can be viewed on the Council's website www.dlrcoco.ie under the heading 'Bathing Water Quality'.

Beach Bye Laws

In light of the recent awarding of Blue Flag Status for the 2013 bathing season at Seapoint and Killiney beaches and in the hope that we do actually have a summer this year, we would like to take the opportunity to remind everyone of the new Beach Bye Laws that were adopted by the Council at its meeting on 8 October 2012.

In order to make our beach areas safe and pleasant for everybody, a number of restrictions are in place relating to litter, dogs, jet-skis and noise.

The most notable changes with the new bye laws relate to the regulations on the control of dogs on beaches. They are less restrictive on dog owners and recognize the needs of all beach users by achieving a balance between dog owners, the general public and swimmers. The current restrictions on dog owners are:

Seapoint Beach

Bathing Area - No dogs allowed all year round

Sandycove Beach

Bathing Area - No dogs allowed all year round

Outside Bathing Area -10.00 am – 7.00 pm dogs must be on leash all year round

Killiney Beach

Bathing Area - No dogs allowed 1 June – 15 Sept 10.00 am – 7.00 pm

At all other times in the bathing area dogs are required to be on leash.

The above restrictions do not apply to guide dogs for the blind. The full text of the Beach Bye Laws which came into effect on the 1 Jan 2013 can be viewed on the Council's website www.dlrcoco.ie.

Queen Mary 2 Visits Dún Laoghaire

In an historic first, the largest cruise liner in the world, the Queen Mary 2, paid a visit to Dún Laoghaire on 16 May. It is the first of 14 cruise ships expected to dock at the harbour this year, bringing 30,000 visitors to the area. With over 3,000 passengers and 1,000 crew members on board, the QM2 is the longest, tallest and most expensive cruise liner ever built with a 3D Cinema, planetarium and a spa included in its many facilities.

Thousands of people flocked to Dún Laoghaire on the day to see the QM2 and take pictures before it set sail for Liverpool at 6 pm that evening. The close-up shot here was taken by An Cathaoirleach, Cllr Tom Joyce, who was lucky enough to visit the QM2 while docked and the other was taken by local photographer Frank Courtney (www.FrankCourtney.com).

Domestic Water Metering Project 2013

Starting in May 2013, Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council is undertaking a survey of its water assets, in order to gather information to support the roll-out of water meters for domestic consumers.

The survey involves a Council employee carrying out a visual examination of the service connection/stopcock at each property on the public water network. This will determine, in advance, if your home is likely to be suitable for a meter to be installed and, if so, the degree of work required during the installation of the meter.

It is only the connection from the public mains to the household that will be surveyed, and accordingly;

- The surveyor does not require access past the property fence line or entrance gate;

- The surveyor will not be calling to doors or otherwise seeking access to property;
- It is not intended to survey connections where there is no public supply, e.g. properties served by private wells.

Surveyors will carry identification, including a phone number and if you are in doubt about the identity of a person claiming to be from Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council, you can contact the number at the bottom of the page to verify the person's identity.

Surveyors are equipped with hand held devices to carry out the survey, and the survey will include the taking of a photograph of the location of the service connection. The taking of a photograph is necessary to facilitate the installation work. The photograph is intended to show the location of the stopcock (a valve located in water pipes) relative to the property. The taking of such photographs will be un-intrusive and will respect your right to privacy.

The survey duration will be very short in most cases, and the surveyor will not usually be outside a property for more than 5 minutes, and generally a lot less. There will be no interruption to your water supply during the survey.

Householders will be notified in advance of the installation of meters – the installation work will commence in mid-2013. Many countries have found meters to be the fairest way of charging for water and the best way to improve the efficiency of a water network. You will not be asked to pay any water charges before 2014.

Tickets on sale in July for Mountains to Sea dlr Book Festival 2013

Make a note in your diary for this years Mountains to the Sea dlr Book Festival, which runs from Tuesday 3 to Sunday 8 September 2013.

This year, the Festival will honour the unique literary landscape of Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown by providing opportunities for the public to hear the very best of Irish and international writers read from their work. Literary fiction is at the heart of Mountains to Sea dlr Book Festival but events cover an array of genres. Poetry Now is an integral part of the Festival and the family and schools programme will inspire and enthuse audiences.

We are delighted to welcome back our Primary Curator Maureen Kennelly, our Poetry Curator Paul Perry and our Family and Schools Curators Sarah Webb and Tom Donegan, all of whom are busy putting the final touches to an outstanding and varied line up.

We are pleased to announce that this year we have a Festival Writer in Residence, Declan Hughes. Declan is a novelist, playwright and screenwriter whose most widely known crime novels centre around the Irish-American detective Ed Loy. Declan is currently writing a new Ed Loy short story with the dlr Festival as a backdrop. His most recent book is City of Lost Girls (2010) and his play Digging for Fire, first performed in 1991, was revived by the Project Arts Centre this year to widespread acclaim.

The full programme of Mountains to Sea dlr Book Festival will be available in mid July so keep an eye on www.mountaintosea.ie. Tickets can be purchased from the Pavilion Theatre 01 231 2929.

Summer Reading Buzz 2013

The Summer Reading Buzz for 2013 promises to be even bigger and better than in 2012. Last year over 500 children participated in the Story Lab Olympic Reading Challenge, receiving medals at the end of the season.

This year dlr Libraries are joining forces with our colleagues in South Dublin, Fingal, Dublin City, Kildare and Longford to generate lots of interest and a hive of activity in every library. Aimed at children of all ages and abilities from 5-13, it involves signing up at your local dlr branch library in June, reading books over the summer with fun incentives along the way and a prize draw and celebration at the end of the summer. Full details about this in mid-June so drop into your local library or sign up for our e-bulletin by emailing your name to libraries@dlrcoco.

Sports Inclusion in action

In 2012, over 500 people with disabilities and their families engaged with the Sports Inclusion Disability Programme in dlr. In this issue we meet Phena O'Connor, our Sports Inclusion Disability Officer (SIDO) whose role is to promote physical activity for people with disabilities, to whatever level the person wishes using local resources to best effect.

To achieve this, Phena engages local clubs, groups and organisations such as dlr Leisure Services to include disabilities in their activities in the pursuit of a sustainable programme that is accessible to everyone. One example of where this has worked particularly well is with a local 'Football for All' programme that is run with Cabinteely Football Club. This involves the provision of weekly inclusive football sessions for children with intellectual disabilities and mild physical disabilities by volunteers who are trained in Club Inclusion and Adapted Physical Activity and are supported by dlr Sports Partnership. The benefits of this programme are huge. Club members have a heightened awareness of disability inclusion in their sport and in society as a whole while the players are part of a sports club with all the benefits that brings.

When asked to explain her role, Phena said: "My aim is to give everyone a chance to be active in a sport and at a level of their choosing, hopefully integrated in a programme with people of their own age. My role involves working with a range of disability categories and a wide spectrum of ability levels, groups, individuals, agencies, families and assistants. In partnership with other governing bodies of disability sport we train volunteers and coaches in inclusive sport working towards full inclusion in sport in the County."

Phena works with many other agencies and encourages inclusion in their programmes and activities. As SIDO, she lectures in Adapted Physical Activity in programmes of education in physiotherapy, sports management and leisure instruction with the Local Sports Partnership's Third Level education partners.

The SIDO programme is funded by the Irish Sports Council.

EnviroCom Awards 2013

The 2013 EnviroCom Awards were officially launched by An Cathaoirleach, Cllr. Tom Joyce and the President of the Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown Chamber, Mr Neil Keenan in April.

The Awards are open to any business irrespective of size or sector, agency or non-profit organisation operating in the County. They recognise the best examples of Energy Management, Waste Prevention, Water Conservation, Environmental Performance and Innovation in the County.

Speaking at the launch, Cllr Joyce said: "When the judging panel assesses entries for the EnviroCom Awards it looks for innovation, environmental, social and economic benefits to communities and replicability in order to select the Award winners."

There is no entry fee for the EnviroCom Awards and applications must be received by Friday 28 June 2013. Further details and an application form can be found at www.dlrchamber.ie/envirocom-awards

New Tea Rooms and a Royal visit for Deansgrange Cemetery

Following an extensive programme of works headed up by the Council's Architects Department, the new Tea Rooms at Deansgrange Cemetery opened its doors for the first time on 09 March 2013.

New Tea Rooms

Prince Edward The Duke of Kent with (l-r) John McCann and John Grimes.

Located in what were formerly the cemetery staff offices, which were left vacant after the staff re-located to the newly refurbished Gate Lodge, the new tea rooms offer home cooking, a friendly welcome, a relaxing atmosphere and a charming ambiance.

With Patricia Neylon (proprietor) baking all her own fresh produce on the premises each morning, the wonderful smell of freshly baked scones and freshly brewed coffee is impossible to ignore once you catch wind of it.

The project itself included the refurbishment of the existing administration building and toilet block located inside the gate lodge entrance on the Deansgrange Road. The original building dates back to 1895.

The extent of the works included:

- Demolition of existing 1950s toilet block to the rear of the building.
- Demolition of some internal partition walls and the upgrading of the windows and perimeter wall and roof insulation.
- New hand cut scalloped roofing slates to match and blend in with salvaged existing slates.
- New toilets within the original building fabric.
- Full rewiring and re plumbing to accommodate the new building function.
- Upgrading of existing insulation throughout to improve energy efficiency

However many of the old pieces were retained, including the fireplace with its ornate mantelpiece.

In the short space of time the tea rooms have been open they have received some quite distinguished visitors. First to sample the goods on offer was the Society of Irish Foresters whose visit commemorated Augustine Henry, the famous botanist. More recently however, Prince Edward, the Duke of Kent was spotted in the area. While the Duke, who is President of the Commonwealth Wargraves Commission, was in Deansgrange to visit RNLI and Commonwealth war graves from both the Great War and WW2, he also visited the 1916 and 1922 Republican plots before being drawn in by the magical smell of Patricia's baking.

Free Disposal of Unwanted Cars / Vans

Did you know that Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council will remove, on request, unwanted cars/vans FREE OF CHARGE?

The vehicles will be properly disposed of in a fully licenced facility and Certificates of Destruction will issue to the registered owners. It is in the interest of the protection of the environment that all unwanted vehicles are disposed of in a proper, safe and environmentally friendly manner.

It is an offence under the Waste Management Acts 1996 to dispose of a vehicle to an unauthorised collector or facility. A person contravening the Act is liable to prosecution and, on summary conviction, to a fine of up to €4,000 and/or imprisonment.

To arrange to have your vehicle removed by the Council or to report an abandoned vehicle, please ring Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council Environment Department at: 1800 403 503

New Book Swap with UCD

dlr Libraries recently partnered with UCD to help create a Book Swap for students and staff in the James Joyce Library in UCD. Launched by An Cathaoirleach, Councillor Tom Joyce, the basic principal of the Book Swap is that people will leave a book, CD or DVD as well as take one.

dlr Libraries already have popular Book Swaps operating at the Pavilion Theatre, Dún Laoghaire and Meadowbrook Leisure Services, Ballinteer. If you are interested in organising a Book Swap in a public space in dlr, please email mkeyes@dlrcoco.ie.

dlr Libraries look forward to developing this collaboration with UCD further in the future.

Bealtaine

The Bealtaine festival, traditionally celebrating the beginning of the Celtic Summer, is an annual event on the Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown calendar. An Age & Opportunity initiative, part-funded by the Arts Council and delivered by hundreds of organizations around the Country, it holds the inspiring remit of Celebrating Creativity in Older Age.

In marking the festival, Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council's Community Section, along with the Network for Older People contribute to the celebrations each year, with the 2013 offering intrigue and mischief. The Man in the Woman's Shoes, a play starring Mikel Murfi, raised the curtain on the following scenario:

"It's October 1978 and Pat Farnon has 'some business' to do in town, but a five-mile walk is no joke when you have to do it in a pair of women's shoes"!!

The play unfolds with the protagonist revealing more and more of his inner thoughts, both hilarious and poignant to a full house with participants from nearly 60 Network for Older People affiliated groups.

Gauging audience reaction during the performance and overwhelming positive feedback afterwards, the play is a 'shoe in' for further successful evenings around the Country.

For those interested in joining us next year, The Network for Older People is always open to new member groups. Anyone of Senior Citizen status around the County, who may wish to get involved, please contact the Community Section of the Council on (01) 2054893, or the Network for Older People for more information at 01-2115883.

dlr Library Voices Series presents Jeffery Deaver in conversation with John Connolly

dlr Library Voices Series concludes its Spring/Summer series with one of the world's most successful thriller writers talking about his work with Ireland's leading crime writer, John Connolly. Jeffery Deaver is the creator of the critically acclaimed Lincoln Rhyme series and the award-winning author of 29 internationally bestselling thrillers, including the recent James Bond novel Carte Blanche. In The Kill Room, brilliant criminologist and quadriplegic Lincoln Rhyme returns to investigate the state-sanctioned killing of a US citizen who is suspected of planning a terrorist attack on a US oil company. Deaver's trademark suspense, richly developed characters and left-field plot twists mark him out as the consummate thriller writer.

Feeling Good 2013

Over 150 attendees enjoyed the Feeling Good 2013 event which was held in County Hall, Dún Laoghaire, on 24 April last.

Organised by dlr Sports Partnership, Southside Partnership dlr and the dlr Social Inclusion Unit, Feeling Good aims to promote positive physical, social and mental health among people with disabilities, their carers, families and friends.

Disability organisations displayed the work that they have been involved with throughout the year, from arts, crafts, videos they have made, songs they have written and produced, and sports they have been busy developing and competing in. There were other attractions on the day too, such as sample smoothies by the Health Food Made Easy programme with copies of the recipe to take away, Giant Games to play such as chess and Conect4 kindly supplied by MYB Promotions, hand massages by Dún Laoghaire Rehabcare and a chairbics corner.

The guest meeter and greeter was Gary Burton, local Special Olympics skier, who won gold in the Alpine Intermediate Giant Slalom at the 2013 Special Olympics World Winter Games in South Korea.

Gum Litter Task Force

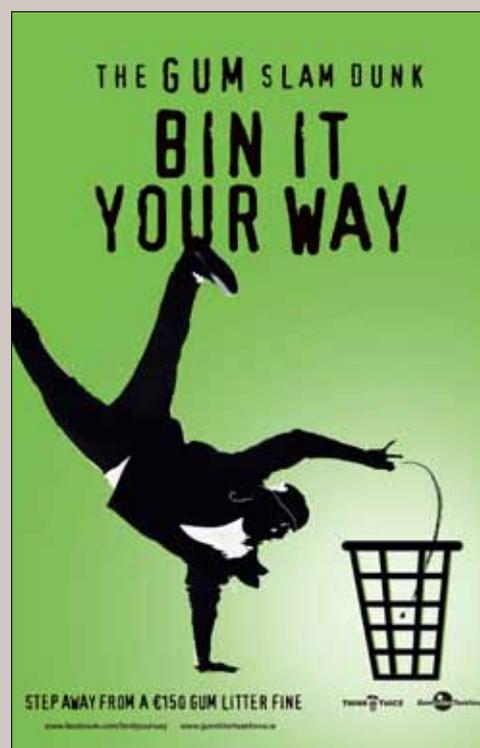

Year two of the renewed three-year Gum Litter Taskforce campaign was recently launched in Blackrock. Last year the GLT campaign achieved a 28% reduction in gum litter nationally while a nationwide on-street attitudes and awareness survey also showed there was a significant improvement in public perception, with gum that is irresponsibly disposed, clearly viewed as 'litter' by those surveyed.

The campaign aims to reduce gum litter by raising awareness amongst the public that dropping gum on the ground is littering and carries a €150 fine. The GLT campaign encourages the public to dispose of their used gum responsibly.

Present at this year's launch were students from Loreto Primary School, Lycee Francais du Irlande Primary School, St. Columbanus National School, the Dominican Convent Primary School and St. Mary's Boys National School.

The theme of the 2012-2014 advertising campaign is "Bin It Your Way" and it features a series of professionally choreographed and highly innovative dance moves which communicate the responsible disposal of gum litter in an engaging way. Pictured at the launch of the campaign (photo on the front page) is Ness O'Neill from Loreto Primary School.
