

Stu Pid meets Coronavirus

By Megan Lynch Age 9

Once there was this kid named Stu Pid. Stu Pid lives on the top of The Sugar Loaf Mountain with his dog, Sir Pugsy. Sir Pugsy is an English speaking dog who is a zillionaire and gets his money by sitting on the top of mount Everest and greeting people who get to the top by drinking tea, and most dogs don't drink tea. He gets up Mount Everest by riding in Stu's teleported which he made out of paper. Stu also has a best friend who is named Ava who is actually just an avocado. Now, this is a very hard time we are living in right now, and I am 99% sure people who write history books are already writing about it right now. If there's anything to write about of course because we're just stuck at home doing absolutely nothing. So anyway, one day Stu came to school (which Pugsy pays for) and saw everyone in groups huddled together whispering with worried looks on their faces. Stu caught some words like "scary virus" and "it came from China" and "we need to wash our hands to be safe from it". Stu didn't know what they're talking about and he wasn't a nosy person so he walked on. Stu went to a school called "Rathdown School" in Rathdown where he lived. He came home from school that day and walked to the bus stop where he found a sign saying: "Beware! The crisis has started! The pandemic has begun! Wash your hands after using the bathroom and before meals of any sort. Protect yourself, your friends, and your family from Corona virus!" Corona virus? thought Stu. He's probably this murderer guy or something who's so bad at making up evil names. Stu thought. He should just copy a name from a book or something then have a name like Voldemort from Harry Potter or something. He thought. Just then, the bus arrived and Stu hopped on. While he was on the bus, he thought about ways to protect himself. When he got home, he went to the living room where Sir Pugsy was watching TV. Hi Sir Puuuu waaaait a minute, you're watching the news! That only means one thing, Leo Varadkar is on! Pugsy's dream is to have tea with Leo and watches him on TV any time he can. And Leo is the reason they have a TV, they use it for nothing else. Back already? Asked Pugsy. Yeah, said Stu. But now I'm going back out again. He said. What for? Pugsy asked, his eyes still on Leo. To save the world! Stu cried and with that he ran out the door and slammed it shut. Suddenly, Stu remembered he heard about a dangerous virus in school and realised it was the Coronavirus. Thought Stu still wanted to help so he decided to go to science labs and help find a vaccine. And that's exactly what he did.
