Let's get cooking!

Using the pretend props created in the video 'Let's get cooking';

You could:

Set up a play kitchen, using a box to make an oven and paper plates to serve the food on.

Set up a Teddy Bear's picnic with some soft toys, paper plates and the salt-dough foods.

The play kitchen could be extended to be a café or restaurant – using little tables or chairs for the customers. The children might choose to be a waiter, with an apron and clipboard to 'write' down the orders. You could make a clipboard with some firm cardboard and large paper clip or clothes-peg.

When setting up the play kitchen you could talk about different kinds of foods, healthy foods we should eat every day and more sugary foods we can have occasionally for a treat.
